Order Granting in Part Plaintiff's Emergency Motion, Modifying and Extending the Temporary Restraining Order, Denying as Moot Plaintiff's Expedited-Discovery Motion, and Directing the Parties to Meet and Confer

[ECF Nos. 7, 9, 18, 20, 27]

10 At the end of August 2023, Plaintiff Digital Alpha Advisors LLC, a private-equity 11 investment firm, filed this lawsuit and moved for a temporary-restraining order (TRO) and 12 preliminary injunction against Defendant Rahim Ladak after he downloaded more than 800 13 confidential documents from Digital Alpha’s servers during his last month of work. I granted the 14 ex parte TRO motion on September 15, 2023, because it appeared that there was a strong 15 likelihood that Ladak downloaded those documents with the intent of disclosing or using them in 16 violation of state and federal trade-secrets laws.¹ And I stayed briefing on the preliminary-17 injunction motion because Digital Alpha filed a motion for expedited discovery to search for 18 evidence in support of it.²

19 Since then, Ladak has been served, appeared, and retained counsel in this case. Ladak
20 has moved to modify the TRO's terms, revealing that he is a whistleblower, he downloaded 21 those documents because he believes that they concern evidence of securities-law violations, and

1 he retained counsel to present that evidence to the SEC.³ He contends that Digital Alpha has not
 2 shown that Ladak disclosed the company's confidential information to anyone but his lawyers
 3 and that he is entitled to immunity from this suit because he is engaging in whistleblowing
 4 activity.⁴ Ladak seeks modifications to the TRO that would allow him to give his lawyers the 5 data he downloaded from Digital Alpha, and he requests that he be allowed to delete the data on 6 his devices before turning them over for forensic examination.⁵

7 Digital Alpha concedes that Ladak must be allowed to share the information with his 8 lawyers but opposes Ladak's requests to delete the data from his devices before turning them
 9 over.⁶ And on October 6, 2023, Digital Alpha filed an "emergency" motion for an order to show
 10 cause why the TRO shouldn't be converted to a preliminary injunction, arguing that the TRO 11 expires on October 13, 2023, and if allowed to lapse, Digital Alpha would have no way of 12 preventing Ladak from disclosing its trade-secret information to competitors.⁷

13 I grant Ladak's motion to modify the TRO in part and amend the language in some 14 portions to clarify that Ladak may share the Digital Alpha data in his possession with his lawyers 15 in this action and those acting as his counsel for his whistleblowing activity. But I stay the 16 portions of the TRO that address turning over devices and submitting them to forensic 17 examination and order the parties to meet and confer about a path forward within five days of 18 this order. If the dispute is resolved, the parties must file a stipulation with the court explaining 19 their agreement. If the parties fail to resolve the dispute, Digital Alpha must file a discovery

1 motion seeking the narrow relief it requests by October 16, 2023. And I find good cause to 2 extend the TRO for 30 days pending these discovery developments, so I grant Digital Alpha's 3 emergency motion in part.

4 Discussion

5 A. TRO modifications

6 Ladak moves to modify the terms of the TRO to allow him to disclose Digital Alpha's 7 confidential information to his lawyers in this case and the attorneys representing him for his 8 whistleblowing activity. That request comports with the Defend Trade Secrets Act's direction
 9 that whistleblowing activity is immune from its reach,⁸ and Digital Alpha does not oppose it.⁹
 10 So I grant in part Ladak's motion to modify the TRO to allow him to disclose documents to his 11 counsel in this case and to the attorneys representing him in relation to his whistleblowing
 12 activity.¹⁰

13 Ladak also requests modifications to the portions of the TRO that direct him to turn over 14 his devices containing Digital Alpha's confidential information to a neutral third-party forensic 15 examiner. He says that doing so would show Digital Alpha "the manner in which [he] organized 16 the data and established folders at the advice of his attorneys representing him in the 17 whistleblower proceedings," giving the company "a roadmap to attorney-work product and the 18 underlying allegations of securities-law violations [that Ladak] has made or will make to the 19 SEC."¹¹ Ladak requests that he be permitted to transfer the documents to his counsel and then 21 ⁸ See 18 U.S.C. § 1833(a), (b).

22 ⁹ ECF No. 21 at 8–9.

23 ¹⁰ Notably, while Ladak disputes Digital Alpha's showing of the likelihood of success on the merits of its claims and that it has shown irreparable harm, he does not seek dissolution of the TRO—an available remedy under FRCP 65(b)(4).

¹¹ ECF No. 18 at 21 (cleaned up).

1 delete them from his devices before forensic review. Digital Alpha opposes this course of 2 action, arguing that Ladak is searching for an order allowing him to destroy evidence.¹² I agree, 3 and Ladak doesn't present any authority for this unorthodox request to destroy evidence. So, for 4 now, I deny that request for modification. But I continue to stay the portions of the TRO that 5 direct Ladak to turn over the devices until this matter can be resolved by the parties or heard by 6 the magistrate judge.

7 B. Discovery disputes

8 At the outset of this case, Digital Alpha filed a motion for expedited discovery in advance
9 of the resolution of its preliminary-injunction motion.¹³ In its reply, Digital Alpha concedes that 10 the motion is moot but renews its request for a protocol to handle the return of its data and 11 devices.¹⁴ The company requests that the court order the parties to meet and confer to select a 12 neutral forensic examiner and agree on a forensic protocol; order Ladak to turn over all devices 13 (without deleting their contents) to that forensic examiner; and appoint a special master to 14 oversee the examination process and resolve any disputes.¹⁵ Ladak doesn't directly respond to 15 that course of action, instead repeating that he be allowed to transfer the files to his lawyers and 16 delete them from his devices before examination. I find that this issue is better resolved by the 17 parties in the first instance, or by the magistrate judge on an expedited basis. So I deny the 18 expedited-discovery motion as moot and order the parties to meet and confer on this narrow 19 discovery issue. If they fail to resolve their dispute within five days, Digital Alpha must file an 20 appropriate motion for relief, which will be referred to the magistrate judge.

1 C. Digital Alpha's emergency motion for an order to show cause

2 Last week, Digital Alpha moved on an emergency basis for an order to show cause why
3 the TRO shouldn't be converted to a preliminary injunction, contending that this is an emergency
4 because the TRO expires at 5:00 p.m. on October 13, 2023.¹⁶ The preliminary-injunction motion
5 has not been briefed, and the state of play has changed significantly since I granted Digital Alpha 6 a TRO in September. Plus, there are other ways to secure the continued protections of a court 7 order that would be preferable to manufacturing an emergency—namely, moving for an 8 extension of the TRO period in order to resolve the discovery issues that have overtaken this 9 action and complicate several of the TRO's directives. Indeed, Ladak filed a response to Digital 10 Alpha's motion stating that he consents to an extension of the TRO.¹⁷ So I find good cause to 11 extend the TRO for a period of 30 days to give the parties time to define the contours of the 12 forensic-examination issues in this case and narrow the remaining requests for preliminary-13 injunctive relief.

Conclusion

15 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Ladak's motion to modify the TRO [ECF No. 18]
16 is GRANTED in part as follows:

- Section 1 is modified to read: Ladak is enjoined from directly or indirectly misappropriating, copying, transferring, using, or disclosing any confidential, proprietary, or trade-secret information of Digital Alpha, Digital Alpha’s portfolio companies, and any third party that entrusted such information to Digital Alpha except that Ladak is not enjoined from making disclosures or uses of such information under 18 U.S.C. §§ 1833(b)(1) or (b)(2), or from making disclosures or uses of such information to his attorneys for purpose of defending this action.

- Section 5 is modified to read: Ladak is enjoined from altering, changing, using, impairing, deleting, or destroying any of Digital Alpha's property, his inventory devices, or the Dell laptop mentioned above, or information, files, or data contained therein, without the court or Digital Alpha's prior permission, except that Ladak is not enjoined from making disclosures or uses of the information on those devices under 18 U.S.C. §§ 1833(b)(1) or (b)(2), or from making disclosures or uses of such information to his attorneys for the purpose of defending this action.
- Sections 2 & 4 of the temporary-restraining order (reproduced below) REMAIN STAYED pending resolution of the discovery issues in this case:
 2. Ladak is directed to immediately return to the attorneys for Digital Alpha: (a) all tangible and intangible property of Digital Alpha or its portfolio companies; (b) all communications, documents, files, and data that he downloaded, copied, took, or otherwise has possession, custody, or control of, from Digital Alpha; (c) all communications, documents, files, and data that contain the confidential, proprietary, or trade-secret information of Digital Alpha or its portfolio companies; (d) all computers or other devices provided to him by Digital Alpha including, but not limited to, the laptop computer bearing Serial No. BNT01B3; and (e) all copies and backups of the foregoing.
 4. Ladak is directed to provide the inventory devices described above, and, to the extent not among the inventory devices, the Dell laptop he purchased during the time he was

1 employed by Digital Alpha, to a neutral third-party expert within 15 days of this order
2 for forensic imaging, inspection, and analysis to determine whether any confidential, 3 proprietary, or trade-secret information of Digital Alpha, its portfolio companies, or 4 third parties who have entrusted such information to Digital Alpha, was or is present.

5 The parties must meet and confer to agree on the third-party expert who will 6 conduct this analysis.

- 8 Ladak has complied with section 3 of the original TRO, so that portion is not extended by this modified TRO.

9 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, good cause appearing, the modified TRO is 10 EXTENDED to 5:00 p.m. on Friday, November 10, 2023. Digital Alpha's emergency motion
11 for an order to show cause why the TRO shouldn't be converted to a preliminary injunction 12 [ECF No. 27] is thus GRANTED in part. The relief Digital Alpha seeks—the maintenance of 13 a court order prohibiting Ladak from using its trade secrets in a manner that might violate trade-14 secrets law—is provided by this extension.

15 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Digital Alpha's motion for expedited discovery [ECF
16 No. 7]] is DENIED as moot. The parties must meet and confer to attempt to resolve their 17 discovery dispute about the manner in which Ladak must turn over relevant devices to a neutral
18 forensic examiner by Friday, October 13, 2023. If they are successful, the parties must file a 19 stipulation explaining their agreement by Thursday, October 18, 2023. If the parties fail to 20 resolve their dispute, Digital Alpha must file a discovery motion on the matter by Tuesday,
21 October 16, 2023. Ladak's expedited response will be due on Friday, October 20, 2023. NO
22 REPLIES OR EXTENSIONS OF TIME WILL BE ENTERTAINED. This discovery 23 matter will be referred to the magistrate judge for prompt resolution.

1 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that briefing on the pending preliminary-injunction motion
2 REMAINS STAYED until the discovery dispute has been resolved.
